

Artist in Residence

Sharon Olexa Crandall "The Classical Lady" will teach students how to listen to classical music with their imagination. Her energetic and entertaining presentations include facts about composers and their lives, information about the music and instruments, as well as narrating her unpublished stories. Students are asked to act out words that they feel from the music.

Actual class time should be arranged by the school administration and generally covers a Monday through Thursday time span. Students will have an opportunity to answer questions about the information they learned during the Radio Disney Road Crew Event. Prizes will be awarded for those that are called on and answer correctly.

Maximum class size should be no more than 75.

The Classical Lady®

Sharon Olexa Crandall, the Classical Lady, is the President of Astoria Productions Ltd. and is an author and publisher of Featherdown® Books. She has incorporated “the magic of music in every Featherdown® book” creating delightful stories and characters with music from famous composers such as Bach and Beethoven.

Mrs. Crandall has loved classical music all her life and has made it her personal mission to help children learn how to listen to classical music with imagination for creative enjoyment. The Classical Creativity® programs introduce children to the experience of writing, drawing, or performing to classical music.
